THE LAW AND THE PROPHETS.

Immediately following his appointment as Special-Agent for the Land Office, W. D. Johnson came out in black face, double-headed type in support of the National Administration, branding as traitors those who dared to question his dictum that Taft is God and Hitchcock is his prophet. And now comes Mr.
Henry, Lincoln Johnson, lately appointed Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia, shouting halleluahs, acclamations and praise for those that hath made him what he is. And should they not? It would be base ingratitude to do otherwise.
The contention of those who think otherwise was very ably stated editorially by the New York Age, last week, commenting on the President's Jackson, Mich., speech. It compares him with Nero fiddling while Rome burnt. "President Taft smiles complacently," continues The Age, "and the threatening dangers and decadence of the Republican party, in whose discord he himself has been the great factor."

The Age thinks Mr. Taft is too much concerned with the past achievements of his party and gives too little thought to the tariff and the protection and the securing of equal citizenship for the black as well as white citizens. These, it asserts, are of far more vital and immediate importance to-day to the Republican party than socialism or the petty troubles in the heart of the Antilles."

In conclusion, says The Age:
"President Taft would have done the better and the nobler thing to have taken stock of the things imperishable and sustaining for which the party stood in 1854, to have noted how it is drifting away to-day from those life-giving principles and to have urged a return to its ancient and rock-ribbed moorings. Then the party was the valiant friend of progress and freedom, the bitter foe of slavery and secession. To-day it stands in weak-kneed deference to the reactionary oppressors of a race and the nullifiers of the Amendments to the Constitution while within the party itself 'Lily Whites' are destroying, unmolested, if not encouraged, the very principles of political equality upon which it rose to power.
Then the party was the sheet anchor of the Negro's liberties; it put on guard none but those who believed that the Republic could only endure when all were equal before the law.
To-day it puts on guard, and especially in the South, the avowed enemies of the party and the Negro—and by a wholesale elimination of Negroes they make no secret of that enmity."

WHAT MR. GAINES DID.

Writing to a local daily newspaper, a Washington correspondent says:
"Little is heard here these days about the candidacy of Phil Waters, the Charleston colored politician who is an aspirant for the position of assistant register of the treasury of the United States. Representative Gaines recently recommended his appointment should a contemplated vacancy occur and made it a point to impress upon the President the fitness of his candidate."

Since that time, however, as a member of the congressional committee, Waters voted with the AVIS members and against the interests of Gaines.

In all probability Waters will now have to await the election of Captain AVIS to congress before "winning the position for which he obtained the endorsement of Gaines before voting with AVIS."

Hoot now, hoot! There is not more than one Negro in every thousand of Mr. Gaines' black constituency who seriously thought he was losing any sleep o' night in his endeavors to make Phil Waters Assistant Register of the Treasury. That was too much uplike Mr. Gaines.

The facts in the case are that Mr.
Gaines, through this same correspondent, has been getting a little more credit than he deserved for the promotion of Waters' candidacy.
Long before the matter was brought to his attention, it had been placed before the President. Mr.

Gaines arose to the opportunity thus presented, to get back into the good graces of his long-neglected colored supporters, called upon the President and the first news the public had of the effort to oust Mr. Adams was so stated as to credit our congressman with the initiative.

Mr. Waters lost nothing by voting as Mr. AVIS desired for the time-honored custom of allowing the several county committees to decide as between district conventions and county primaries. From the side Mr. Gaines has always presented to us, we feel that Mr. AVIS, the private citizen, will do more, and that willingly, to advance Mr. Gaines, the congressman, and that too had Mr. Waters acted at Montgomery contrary to the dictates of his conscience and the advice of his friends.

If, as is above stated, the assistant register may come this way upon the election of Captain AVIS, who is there to say it is not among the probabilities? Mr. Gaines' return to Washington is not quite as certain as death nor is it as positive as the collection of taxes.

AIMING AT THE STARS

It is pleasing to turn from the chronicles of chicanery and graft, self-advancement and charges of foul crimes in the African Methodist church to the contemplation of the advice Dr. Walker gave in his Birmingham lecture. He is one, and glory be he does not stand alone, who thinks the pulpit ought to concern itself less with the golden street of the New Jerusalem and more with the muddy alleys in which the majority of their hearers dwell here below. In other words, he suggests that a little more stress be placed upon how we live than upon how we die; that greater attention be given to what we leave than to what we say when the Master calls.
In this he is in accord with advanced thought, not only of the whites but of those Negroes who are emancipated from the superstition that every man who poses as a shepherd of the flock is the chosen mouth-piece of God. He does not endorse the sentiment expressed in "you may have all this world, but give me Jesus", but implies that some of both make a good combination.

The type of leaders he proposes for the race is rather difficult of attainment, but no harm is done in setting the mark high. Some there may be who will reach it in time.
Those who fail will lose nothing in the effort.

Lewis Henderson, of Macdonald, cautioned, in the Fayette Journal, last week, his colored brethren in Fayette county against drastic action on account of their failure to be represented on the legislative ticket. He holds up the scare crow of disfranchisement—"worse even than slavery"—and virtually advised the endorsement of boss rule and committee nominations as preferable to a full and free expression of the wishes of the voters.

It is a trite, but true saying that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

The president has appointed another man from Tennessee to a federal position. This time it was an army chaplain in a Negro Regiment and he was only the fourth to knock down a juicy plum from the appointment tree. Would it not be well for non-resident applicants to acquire residence in "dear old Tennessee"?

The State has shown its willingness to improve the condition of its Negro teachers by providing a summer school at Institute, attendance upon which is within the reach of all. It is now up to the teachers to show whether they really want to improve themselves or not.

The weather prophet ought to be ashamed to deal out such beastly weather in the month of June. Meanwhile, has he no regard for the superstitions of the bride?

The Gaines people held a meeting at the Rufner a few nights ago, but the brother in black was conspicuous by his absence. This was in line with Mr. Gaines' usual procedure.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to all our friends and relatives for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and at the death of our dear brother Adolphus Woods, and for the beautiful floral offerings, and all those who in any way took part in conveying the remains to their last resting place. We wish especially to thank Rev. V. Hariday for his kind attention during his illness, for his consoling words, and services.

Mrs. Albert Hackley,
C. C. Woods
J. W. Woods.

Charleston

Fred D. Cambro, teacher in the Garnett High School, left Sunday noon for his home at Clarksburg to spend the summer vacation. He was accompanied by Matthew Obie who spent a few days here visiting friends.

Misses Carolina Claire and Skil-worth Campbell, students at the W.
V. C. I., spent the week end here visiting Mrs. G. W. Claire. They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Anderson, Southside, Sunday afternoon.

George E. Wanzer, janitor of Mercer school building and prominent in Pythian and St. Luke circles, has been seriously ill with acute indigestion the past week at his room on Donnelly street. His daughter, Mrs. Ladonia Ming, of Indianapolis, Ind., is in attendance upon him.

J. H. Taylor went to Parkersburg Tuesday on business.

J. M. Hazlewood was a business visitor to St. Albans, Tuesday.

Mrs. Maude Jackson who has been the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. J.
M. Hazlewood, for several days left yesterday for Cincinnati where she will spend the summer.

J. A. Jackson, assistant State Librarian, returned Monday evening from Wheeling where he was in attendance upon the W. Va. Supreme Court of Appeals.

Rev. H. B. Rice preached the thanksgiving sermon to the Red Men at Winfrede Sunday. For his services he was given a very handsome purse.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hazlewood entertained informally Tuesday evening complimentary to Dr. W. W.
Jones and Miss Alpha Brooks.

J. C. Gilmer, State Librarian, was at Montgomery yesterday attending the caucus of Fayette county's leading Negro politicians.

Miss Carrie DeHaven returned to the city Saturday from Wilberforce, O., where she attends school.

Mrs. Lillie Brown, of Richmond, Va., returned to her home Saturday after spending several weeks with her brother, Dr. H. E. Gamble.

Mrs. H. H. Bailey, of Montgomery was in the city this week to attend the Jones-Brooks nuptials.

Misses Gertrude Campbell, Hazel Dillard, and Clara Brown, and Fred Morris, Frank Taylor and Edward Lewis have returned from Storer College, Harpers Ferry.

Dr. W. W. Jones and Miss Alpha Brooks visited relatives at Institute Monday.

The Saturday Afternoon Whist Club gave a miscellaneous shower Monday evening at the home of Mrs.
C. H. Stephenson on Bibby St., in honor of Miss Alpha E. Brooks.

Misses Nina Clinton and Estella Greene left Thursday for their homes in Zanesville, O.

Miss Lillian Holmes will entertain the Carnation Social Club at her home on Quarrier St., this evening.

Mrs. Anna Collins is seriously ill at her home on Wall St.
Born to Mr. and Mrs. John A.
Brown, Court St., Friday last, a girl baby.

Mrs. Eugene Cash, who has been ill for several months at the home of her parents at Flemingsburg, Ky., has recovered and returned to the city.

Miss Elnora Lewis, North Rand St., after a serious illness, is able to be out again.

Mrs. Bettie Clarkson served a six course dinner at her home on South Side, Monday, complimentary to Mrs. O. M. Mitchell and Mrs. Delphi Preston.

James Scott, Sentz St., is sick with measles.

Mrs. Clinton Nunn, of Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. W. H. Lowry, of Institute, were guests of Mrs. F. C.
Brown, Wednesday.

Miss Lena Rice has returned to the city from Oberlin, O.

The Needle Art club will meet next week with Mrs. Marietta Hawkins, North Rand St.

Little Cassie Chandler who has been quite sick at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Wanzer, is able to be up.

The Woman's Loyal Union met this week with Mrs. Lillie Davis, Welch St. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Abbie Campbell, McCormick St. At their last meeting the Union made substantial donations to Mrs. Sarah Dickerson and Edward Conaway.

Miss Neva Parker is slowly improving.

But little improvement is to be noted in the condition of Edward Conaway whose illness was reported last week.

Island school rendered its closing school program Monday night this week to a large audience. The proceeds from the door and refreshments went to Ladies Association, a charitable institution in West Charleston that is doing good service.

Pastor J. S. Carroll conducted the usual services at Simpson M. E. church last Sunday, preaching both morning and evening to appreciative congregation.

The mid-week prayer meetings are very interestingly conducted by the pastor. He has for several weeks discussed some phases of Gods Promises. You miss a spiritual and intellectual feast by absenting yourself from this means of grace.

Next Sunday is Grand Rally Day at Simpson church. All regardless of denomination, are asked to atstist in lifting the heavy load that rests upon the church. Pastor Read the choir and congregation of the First Baptist church have kindly consented to take charge of the afternoon service at 3:30. A Red Letter Day is planned.

APPEAL FOR AID

Huntington, W. Va., June 13, 1910.
Editor of Advocate,
Charleston, W. Va.

Dear Sir:—Please allow me space through the columns of paper to make an appeal to the citizens of West Virginia relative to the support of the Colored Orphans' Home and Industrial School located at Huntington.

Dear readers, it is no longer a thing of speculation but an actual fact. This institution has been in existence for ten years and is now known in every nook and corner of this state and in adjacent states, to be no longer an orphanage on paper but one in fact, composed of over 200 acres of land and a beautiful building, where 150 children can be provided for and where this class of children are receiving good common school education and such trades as will make them good useful citizens.

There are hundreds of citizens of this state who have never contributed a penny.

Is it not a fact that this class of children are the off-spring of our race and is it not a fact that they should be cared for by the more fortunate ones of the race? Should it not be our highest aim in life to make good citizens out of even the worst of our race much less the innocent and unfortunate ones of the race who are made so by God and are not responsible for their condition?

Dear readers, should we not wake up to the sense of our duty and in the name of our God set up our banner, to be unfurled for this rising generation, that says we stand for the bettering of our race and the uplifting of humanity.

If there is any class of citizens in the state that should rally to this cause it should be the Negro.

There is no other state in the South which offers to the colored people the encouragement for humanity's sake as does West Virginia.

The Caucasian Race has fine orphanages and other institutions which they are caring for very nicely. Is it not time for us to awake to the sense of our duty and make one unanimous struggle all over the state for this institution?

We appeal to every church, Sunday School, Lodge, Organization and to every individual in the state to send to us a contribution, though it may be small, at once to help us in our efforts, as the Institution must be put upon some safe basis.
Yours for the uplifting of my race,
C. E. McGEHE.

DR WASHINGTON IN DELEWARE.

Proposed Tour of State Postponed Until July 3rd. Dr. S. G.
Elbert in Charge of the Arrangements.

Wilmington, Del., June 10—Owing to an unavoidable delay in perfecting the necessary arrangements for the tour of the State by Dr.
Booker T. Washington, planned for the 26th of this month, has been postponed until July 3 and 4. Dr.
Samuel G. Elbert, of this city, will have charge of the itinerary. He says the trip will cover the principal points in the state and that it will be an inspiration and an awakening such as the people of both races in this section of the country have not enjoyed in a lifetime.

It is said that the 4th of July address of Dr. Washington will be of especial significance at this time, as it will treat largely of the achievements and worth of the Negro citizens of the Republic that had its birth on that day, one hundred and thirty-four years ago.
